Prestige office development at Lichfield gateway gets underway

Construction of three prestige headquarter office buildings has started at Lichfield South, the high profile development strategically located near the M6 Toll junction at Wall Island, the new 'Gateway to Lichfield'.

According to Jonathan Hart, Director at developers Lingfield Securities plc, the two-storey office buildings, set on 3.4 acres, will offer 'Grade A' quality accommodation, commensurate with high status blue-chip company headquarters.

"The stunning, contemporary design and high specification of these offices reflects the importance of the site as Lichfield's gateway," he said. "Visitors will be met with an ultra-modern, striking business landscape, which will create the impression of a successful, affluent and forward looking city. We have already had strong interest in the development, and are confident that this prime office accommodation will attract major businesses and secure new top salary jobs for Lichfield."

He added that Lichfield South will be the first development in the area to offer the type of top quality office premises demanded by leading companies in the twenty-first century.

"In a real sense, Lingfield is investing in the future of Lichfield," he said.

Lichfield South is ideally situated, close to the UK's motorway network and within easy access of the region's airports and international rail terminals, giving businesses flexibility and surface communications access, whilst avoiding the costs and dead time associated with commuting. The first 14,500 sq ft office building is due for completion in June 2007.
